A Card from W. E. Garrett.

To the editor of the Alexandria Gazette:

I have just been shown a copy of your paper of the 13th inst., in which appears a communication over the caption "Aliquis," wherein my name appears in prominent, and according to correspondence, discreditable colors, and while the report of the Convention of which it treats was published in our county papers, yet some of the facts stated in said communication were in our reports entirely overlooked, and I herewith take the liberty of informing you and your readers, should you be inclined to publish this, an additional report of the great Convention.

As to its object and plan of organization I will submit your former report, only remarking that the Vice President of the "Aliquis" alluded to was made President of the Convention.

The resolution offered by Mr. Green, as reported by Aliquis, however, needs some correction, and by reference to the preamble as published, you will find that delegates "have been appointed of known personal proclivities," it being known that they were going to misrepresent their several sections of country, and the resolution was designed to correct misrepresentations where it could be proven by evidence in the Convention that such misrepresentation existed. These resolutions were voted down, because, like all self-constituted "Aliquis," they could not bear the test of an honest investigation.

The next resolution provided that candidates should define their position, and pledge themselves to support the nominee. Under that resolution, before any nominations were made, I arose on the platform and stated that as a citizen of Loudoun, having been elected fairly by the people of Loudoun, I felt it my duty as well as pleasure to define my relations to those who had last fall elected me. I was interrupted, and an effort was made by the Chair to silence me, but calls were made in the bar, and behind the bar and in the gallery; ("a knot of the most bitter Radicals" may have been in the number), and the outside pressure being strong, I was permitted to proceed. I confess I was somewhat excited, and may have used some language like "the great State of Virginia and the United States of America," but I did I certainly meant that it in this great country, including the powers and rings of Washington, there was any more corruption and trickery than in the then so-called Convention of the Conservative party, I hoped I would never see it.

I am not a professional politician, only an humble citizen, but by reason of a combination of causes, I was induced last fall to become a candidate for the office of Clerk of the Court. It pleased the people of the county then to give me a majority of 1,026 over my competitor. The amendments prevented my entering on the duties of the office on the 1st of January, as provided, and while I know of no cause of change of sentiment, my relations to the people are the same in all respects, I could but conclude that this Convention of the Conservative party was a misnomer, and hence I did not allow my name to be used in the body at all, but expect to give the people an opportunity to vote for or against me on the 4th Thursday in May. Very respectfully,

W. E. GARRETT.

MOUNT GILEAD, VA., April 28, 1875.

IMPROVEMENT OF NAVIGABLE WATERS.—A West Virginia inventor has been exhibiting in Cincinnati a model of a contrivance for improving navigable streams by means of a combination of locks, chutes, and dams. It represents, in miniature, a lock one hundred feet wide and six hundred feet in the clear, with a floating capacity of six thousand tons, which is equal to the tonnage of some of the largest ocean steamers. This lock may be converted into a chute in less than a minute, thus avoiding any stoppage for boats descending the river. The gates of the lock are operated by the "draw" of the water, which hoists and lowers them by its own action, requiring but two men to manage each lock. Boats running up stream without lock will require a rise of water of about five feet above low water mark, and in case locking is necessary it can be accomplished in less than five minutes. The inventor says that the largest boats and tows can be got through in that time. The adjustable dam, which is operated on the same principle as the lock gates, may be put in four hundred feet across a river, and be made to rise and fall by the action of the river. It can be worked by the two men handling the lock, and the inventor says that with this dam he can break up ice in a river as fast as it forms and keep navigation open all winter. He is confident, in fact, that with his appliances placed at distances of twenty miles apart he could insure ten feet of water in the Ohio the years round.

PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY.—The next General assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States will meet at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 20th inst. The proceedings will relate to the finances of the Boards, the overture on the Eldership, correspondence with the Reformed Dutch Church relative to union, the sustentation scheme, a Court of Appeals, the hymn book question, &c. The church of which this Assembly is the judicatory comprises 174 Presbyteries arranged in 35 Synods, and having under their care 4,906 ministers; 4,946 churches, embracing 495,643 communicants and over half a million Sabbath scholars. Total amount contributed to all objects last year, $9,120,792. The foreign missions of the Presbyterian Church are thirteen in number, in charge of 861 laborers, and established among the Indian tribes and Chinese in the United States, and in Mexico, South America, Asia and Africa. The converts connected with these missions number over five thousand, and the mission schools are attended by about thirteen thousand scholars.

LOUDOUN COUNTY ITEMS.—Judge Keith has granted an act of incorporation to the Loudoun Manufacturing Company with a capital of not less than $10,000, nor more than $40,000. It is designed to manufacture and repair all kinds of agricultural implements, and prepare and sell the most popular fertilizers.

MURDER OF A CONSTABLE.—Constable Jas. Batton, of Princess Anne county, was murdered near Norfolk, on Saturday morning, just before daybreak. He and his son were driving along the road when they were rushed upon by persons ambushed and shot and clubbed. Mr. Jas. Batton, the father, being killed. The son was uninjured and escaped to a neighbor's and gave the alarm. Batton and his son were both armed with revolvers. From one version of the matter it appears that the cart was approached by three men, one of whom fired at Batton, killing him instantly, the shot literally tearing away the back part of his head, after which they robbed his person of $300. His son is about eighteen years of age.

The improvement upon Willoms, as Attorney General, in the appointment of Judge Pierpont, is so great that general satisfaction is expressed.

West Virginia Capital.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 1.—There is fan over the capital question. The sheriff of Kanawha county has orders to summon Gov. B. G. Shumate, we regret to hear, has been quite an invalid since the adjournment of the Legislature. Latterly he has been confined to his room and a part of the time to his bed.—Warrenton Index.

DESTRUCTION OF LEWISTON.—The fine old brick mansion, "Lewiston," the former residence of Gen. S. H. Lewis, deceased, and more recently occupied by S. H. Lewis, son of the General, a short distance below Fort Republic, in this county, was totally destroyed by fire on Thursday morning last. Mr. Lewis lost nearly all the property he had in the house, including even the children's clothing. The fire was first discovered about daylight, and as yet it is not known how it occurred, whether from a defective flue or otherwise. The house was one of the best in the county, and its loss will be heavily felt. Mr. Lewis, who had no insurance either upon that or his personal property.—Rockingham Register.

OBITUARY.—We have just returned from the largely attended funeral of an old and valued friend, WILLIS BROWN, Esq., at Greenwood, in the family burial ground upon his paternal estate, now transmitted to his only son, who departed this life at Mountain View, his residence, in Hayspannack county, on Monday, the 20th ultimo, in the seventy-ninth year of his age. While oppressed with sorrow at the loss of such a true and valued friend, it is a mournful satisfaction to bear an humble tribute to the many excellencies of his character. Of a cheerful and kindly disposition, few there were who could compare with him in the way he possessed of winning, without the least effort, the esteem and respect of those brought within the circle of his acquaintance, and the fascination of his manners, especially in his own house, in the exercise of the hospitality of a Virginia gentleman of the old school, than whom there was no finer specimen. Many instances of his quiet and unostentatious charity occur to us, learned accidentally from the recipients of his bounty, never from him. An affectionate husband, a kind parent, a good neighbor, a true friend, and a true patriot, he was a friend to be loved and esteemed, was the subject of this testimony to his worth from one, who for many long years of sunshine and storm, valued, esteemed and appreciated him, whose face we shall see no more forever, but who will long survive in remembrance.
